Every year, there is a special ceremony* in Sweden. The Nobel Prize was created by the scientist and businessman Alfred Nobel. Alfred was born in Sweden in 1833. His family was very poor, and their life was difficult. When he was 10 years old, his family moved to Russia. His father started a company which made tools for machines. It was very successful, and the Nobel family was able to live a comfortable life at last.

Alfred was interested in science since he was a small boy. Because his family was poor, Alfred could not go to school. He studied with his father and other scientists in Sweden. In Russia, Alfred was finally able to go to school. However, he liked studying by himself, and stopped going to school after only one and a half years.

Alfred was very interested in the explosives* which were used in building railroads* and digging* for natural resources* like iron, gold, and coal. He wanted to make them stronger and safer. In 1867, Alfred invented Dynamite. It was a safe and powerful explosive. It was very popular, and Alfred's company soon became the largest explosives maker in the world.

Alfred became a rich and famous man, but he was worried. His company made products that were dangerous. Explosives like Dynamite were used to make new things, but they were also used in bombs and other weapons* of war. Alfred wanted to use the money he made from Dynamite to help people. He decided to create a prize for scientists, artists, and other people who made the world a better place.

The first Nobel Prizes were given in 1901. Today, there have been more than 900 winners of Nobel Prizes. Nobel would be happy to see that his prize is helping people who want to improve the world.
